Applicant : Donald X. Smith II   Attorney Docket No.: 10016657-1
Patent No. :
Issued   :
Serial No. : 10/001648
Filed   : 10/30/2001
Page   : 2

if the a section of print content is not assigned the a priority level, printing the section of print content using a normal print mode.

3. (Once Amended) The method of claim 2- 1 and further comprising printing each section of the print content in according to the priority level assigned to that particular section of print content.

4. (Once Amended) The method of claim 2-1 and further comprising the steps of printing a first section of print content that comprises assigned a low priority level by printing the first section in grayscale; and printing a second section of print content that comprises assigned a high level of priority by printing the second section in the normal print mode.

21. (Once Amended) In a system comprising a computer coupled to a printer, the printer having an ink supply for printing content on print media and capable of: the method comprising the steps of:

receiving a print job comprising print content, the content having at least one section; parsing the print content to determine at least one print priority level for each section of the at least one section; generating a print job in response to the content and the at least one print priority level; transmitting the print job to the printer; and printing the print job in response to the content and the at least one print priority level.

Please cancel claim 2

Please add claim 24 as follows: